

TIP OF THE MONTH

Avoiding Holiday Injuries

During the holidays, back injuries and falls become more prevalent as people maneuver themselves up and down ladders and stairways while carrying or lifting heavy objects. A little bit of lifting and ladder safety can go a long way to keeping the holidays merry.

When lifting large or heavy objects, make sure you:

1. Check to ensure the load is stable and balanced.
2. Consider all possibilities. Is the path clear? What is the weight of the load? How much stress will be placed on your back? Is there traffic, a tripping hazard, a doorway to go through, or a stairway to go up or down? Avoid carrying an object that requires two hands to hold, either up or especially down a flight of stairs.
3. Use a wide, balanced stance with one foot in front of the other. Make sure you have firm footing and that your feet are a shoulders-width apart. This staggered stance gives you the stability of not falling over and being able to secure the load.
4. Lift gradually with your legs and not your back.
5. As you begin the lift, tighten your stomach muscles and keep your head and shoulders up. The closer the load is to your spine, the less force will be placed on your back.
6. Don't twist. Move your feet in the direction of the lift. This will eliminate the need to twist at the waist.

When going up and down ladders, make sure you:

1. Wear clean slip-resistant shoes. Shoes with leather soles are not ideal for ladder use as they are not considered sufficiently slip-resistant.
2. Place the ladder on firm level ground and without any type of slippery condition present at either the base or top support points.
3. Do not put the ladder in front of closed doors that can open toward the ladder. The door should be blocked open, locked, or guarded.
4. Make sure the length of the ladder is sufficient so that the climber does not have to stand on the top rung or step.
5. Never jump or slide down from a ladder or climb more than one rung/step at a time.
